RECOMMENDED SAFETY PROCEDURES FOR ATTACK, FIRE, AND INJURIES

Active Shooter

- Remain calm and don't spread panic
- Choose your response: RUN AWAY! (and inform)—HIDE! (and inform)—FIGHT!
- If you RUN AWAY:
 - do not waste time taking your personal belongings or valuables—YOUR LIFE IS THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU HAVE!
 - help others only in case it will not endanger your own life
 - keep your hands free while running and hold them over your head—this is a signal to police that you are not an armed attacker
 - do not gather close to the building under attack—you could be an easy target
- If you HIDE:
 - lock or block all entrances to the room you are in
 - turn off the radio and television, disconnect the telephone lines, turn down the ringer on your mobile phones
 - lie on the floor as far away from the door as possible— but NOT across from the door—or hide behind furniture or other equipment in the room
 - DO NOT MAKE ANY TELEPHONE CALLS—inform a trusted person outside the building by text message (SMS)
 - briefly say where you are; what is happening; the number of people who are with you and their names, if known; the number of injured; description and number of attackers, if known; what you hear (gunshots, explosions, language, etc.).
 - do not open the door for anyone—it could be a ruse by the attacker
- If you FIGHT:
 - use any objects as improvised weapons
 - your DEFENSE MUST BE STRONGER THAN THE ATTACK
 - DO NOT FIGHT FAIRLY—you're fighting for your life, not a medal!

- Once the situation has been resolved:
 - cooperate with police
 - don't hold your emotions in
 - seek medical or psychological help
 - inform your loved ones that you are safe

Explosive Devices

- If you find a suspicious object:
 - remain calm and don't spread panic
 - do not tamper with the suspicious object
 - do not use any type of electronic device in the vicinity of the suspicious object (NO mobile phones, walkietalkies, cameras, etc.)
 - inform the police
 - evacuate the premises
 - if possible, turn off the main gas supply and electricity
 - if possible, close the blinds on the windows
 - be aware and watch for information for the public that the rescue services will provide
- If an explosion occurs near you:
 - do not go out into open areas—remain indoors
 - warn people around you and try to keep them from entering the danger zone
 - do not unnecessarily overload phone lines
 - do not linger near glass surfaces, windows, shop windows etc.
 - limit your movement in public areas to a minimum—this makes it easier for the emergency units to do their work
 - obey the instructions of emergency services
 - be aware and watch for information for the public that the rescue services will provide

Building Fire

- Remain calm and don't spread panic
- Activate the fire alarm
- Protect your airways—some modern materials release toxic substances when they burn
- IF POSSIBLE, EXTINGUISH THE FIRE!
 - DO NOT EXTINGUISH electrical fires with water!
 - DO NOT EXTINGUISH unknown chemical fires or natural gas or gasoline fires with water!
 - To extinguish fires, use fire extinguishers, water, sand, wet blankets

- DON'T FORGET that it takes about 3 minutes for smoke to fill a space—it will disorient you and significantly reduce your ability to breathe
- If it is NOT POSSIBLE to extinguish the fire, RUN AWAY!
- While running away, provide help to other persons only if it is within your power—do not risk your life needlessly
- Sometimes the best help you can offer is if you escape from the burning building and inform rescue services quickly and accurately
- Unless it is necessary to escape, DO NOT OPEN doors and windows—you will give the fire more oxygen and cause it to spread
- If you must open a door to escape:
 - first check the door's temperature with your hand
 - look for signs of smoke (under the door, around the lock and hinges)
 - open the door while hiding against the wall—prepare for a possible blast of flame resulting from the gust of oxygen to the fire
 - keep close to the floor when opening the door
- If you are cut off by the fire and a rescue operation is underway, try to seal the gap at the bottom of the door, around the edges of the door, and around the lock and hinges so toxic smoke cannot enter—most doors can withstand fire for 10–20 minutes
- NEVER try to escape the fire by running to the upper floors—fire and toxic smoke spread upwards!
- Smoke and contamination by poisonous substances move downwards from the ceiling—if necessary, move through the room on your hands and knees
- When escaping, do not use elevators/lifts
- Beware of falling beams, lintels, chandeliers, decorations, and other building elements and furnishings
- If you must escape by jumping from a window, try to wait for the arrival of firefighters and wait for their instructions (preparation of a jump sheet or inflatable cushion, how to jump, etc.)
- If you must escape by jumping out of the window before firefighters arrive:
 - before jumping, throw everything out of the window that could cushion your fall
 - select the softest point of impact (YES: lawns, flowerbeds; if possible, NOT concrete surfaces)
 - reduce the distance between you and the ground by hanging out the window by your hands, or even using ropes or rolled up sheets, curtains, etc.
 - BE CAREFUL when jumping into trees—there is a risk of impalement on a branch
 - before jumping, wrap your head and neck tightly with a towel, sweater, trouser legs, etc.

- If your clothing catches fire, try to undress—if this is not possible, lie down immediately on the ground and roll over and over to cut off the oxygen supply to the flames against the ground
- Extinguish burning clothing on someone else in the same way, or throw a thick cloth over them (a duvet, blanket, towel, etc.) or an item of clothing (a coat, etc.) to choke the flames
- BE CAREFUL when extinguishing burning people with water in the area where the fire is burning—the heat will quickly evaporate the water and can cause scalding
- DO NOT WASTE TIME collecting valuables or packing up your belongings—your life is the most important thing!
- After the incident
 - IMMEDIATELY inform firefighters of the known number and location of any people in the building
 - Let yourself be treated, or treat yourself or injured people around you
 - Seek out state authorities and emergency services on the scene and inform them that you are safe
 - Obey the instructions of rescue services

Contamination of the Abbey (Outdoors) with an Unknown Chemical Substance

- Remain calm and don't spread panic
- Immediately seek shelter in closed buildings
- Close all windows, doors, and vents, turn off ventilation and air conditioning units
- Protect your airways, face, and any exposed skin with any type of material
- Even if you don't feel well, do not sit or lie down—many chemicals and gases are heavier than air and will collect close to the ground
- Provide first aid; if necessary, call an ambulance
- Warn people around you and try to keep them from entering the danger zone
- Do not unnecessarily overload phone lines
- Obey the instructions of emergency services units
- Be aware and watch for information to the public that local authorities will provide

- Inform the emergency services
- Obey the instructions of emergency services units
- Provide first aid; if necessary, call an ambulance

- Warn people around you and try to keep them from entering the danger zone
- Do not unnecessarily overload phone lines
- Be aware and watch for information to the public that local authorities will provide
